

At FLS we know that learning English should be an experience that goes beyond the classroom.

To ensure this happens, FLS works with students to create opportunities to use English in the communities surrounding our centers.

At each center we develop partnerships with organizations, companies, hospitals and schools in the local area to develop ways for students to participate in the community, meet people, learn new skills and practice English in new settings.

Whether it's donating time at a school or community center, volunteering at a hospital or taking a yoga class, taking part in our English Plus programs is fun, involving and a perfect way to improve your conversational skills!
